

Darian Krimm received his Bachelor of Arts in Music from Anderson University (SC), and his Master of Music in Choral Conducting and Vocal Performance from East Carolina University.

He has sung professionally with CONCORA (Connecticut Choral Artists), and The Voice of the Archangel. He was the founding Conductor and Music Director of the Jackson Choral Society, in Jackson, TN.

His choirs have sung at Carnegie Hall, The Biltmore House, and venues in England, Ireland, and France. His mentors include Bob Heritage, Richard Williamson, John Kramar, and Joseph Martin. He is an active member of the American Choral Directors Association, and Chorus America.

For two decades he served as Minister of Music for United Methodist churches in Connecticut, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Georgia. He currently work as an Account Manager with the Fokker Services Group in LaGrange. Outside of his full-time employment, Darian is also an active composer with multiple publishing houses and serves as an Editor for EasyChoirMusic.com. He is also an active Scout Volunteer in the Chattahoochee Council and is an avid Boy Scout patch collector. He also enjoys hiking, spending time outdoors, playing tennis, and watching far too much TV. He especially enjoys time with his two incredible daughters, Harper and Mallory, their sleepy cat and two lazy dogs.
